"NEVER HAVE SO MANY OWED SO MUCH TO ONE"

-JEN SHILLINGFORD

For the years of hours dedicated to Radnor,
We dedicate this yearbook to you, Miss Encke.

Ethel Encke, one of the most dedicated and loyal teachers I have ever known, truly exemplifies the Spirit of Radnor. Not only did she work indefatigably to help the Physical Education Department achieve excellence but her interests and contributions extended to all areas of school life. When a chaperone or sponsor was needed, she cheerfully and enthusiastically assumed the responsibility. As a result of her manifold activities, she had a tremendous influence on the students who knew she would accept nothing less than their best efforts. Her outstanding participation in professional organizations brought her and her school many well deserved honors and awards.

It was indeed a privilege for me to be associated with Ethel Encke for many years at Radnor High school. As she begins a more leisurely life, I feel certain that she will continue to work with youth groups for the betterment of the community.

MARY CARTER EVANS
FORMER PRINCIPAL

My good coal cracking friend from Hazelton, Pa. Just a real troubador in physical education and a wonderful girls' athletic coach.

CHIEF METOXEN

Miss Encke's montage would include activities ranging from salvaging crayons for Day Camp to participating in National Education policy making. A great Radnorite and a great woman!

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

"All those who haven't played come up and sit by me"
-1948

CELIE LANG
PRESIDENT OF THE GOLDEN SPLINTER CLUB

There was one time, one Halloween, when bridge club met and Miss Encke in the football captain's uniform and I in the Hockey captain's tunic arrived late for "the game".

But devastating to my sense of importance was the day I waited about an hour to be picked up for a trip to the shore and the phone rang, "Hello, I'm in Mt. Airy, I forgot you." But she did come back.

...and being her guest one snowy night at the state convention banquet the year she was president. We were proud of her then, too!

CHARLOTTE ZEARFOSS

"Alright girls - Let's get out there and really show 'em! Guide Right!"

JUDIE LIEDY

As a teacher, Ethel Encke builds confidence and pursues excellence in her students. As a recreation director she is the master of the biting phrase at the critical moment. Her mind is strong both in its resources and in its mastery of the extemporaneous. She is the energy with which schools are supercharged.

VINCE FALCONE

Remember the 1945 Plymouth game we played at Rockne hall?"

ELLIS DWYER

Our tradition - what we are - are embodied in the person of Miss Encke. She is truly MISS RADNOR!

DAN BRESNAHAN

Ethel: helpful confidante for her girls, sterling coach, a state-wide expert in the Physical Education field. Yet to me, the one great thing about our Ethel is the manner in which she has helped preserve our Radnor Spirit through Lower Merion rallies and her work with cheerleaders.

I salute my former colleague with "Well done" and hope her future will be as happy as she has made all of us.

"PRE"

"Where's Addy's buddy?" All those trips to Bethlehem, the Palestra, Hershey and Harrisburg - What is a "Queenie Special"?

THELMA HENTSCHEL

Love is what I wish on my mother on Monday mornings when she wakes me up.

Monday that Pat and Mike are sitting

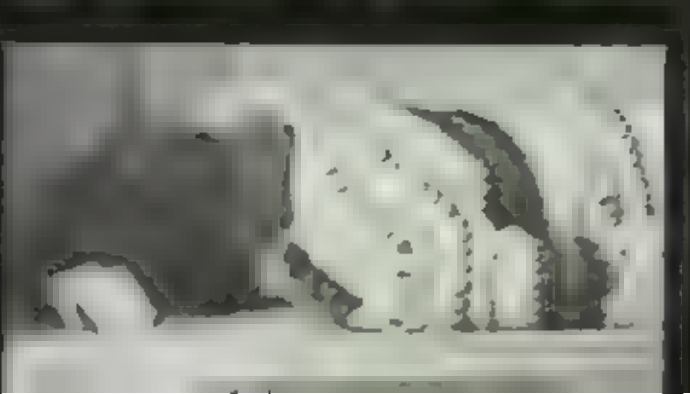

It's quiet now
 After the rush of people
 Hurrying towards exits
 Some smiling, laughing, pushing
 Then the few, taking their time
 Probably thinking about the day
 That just passed them by
 I stayed behind
 On purpose
 To see what it was like
 I walked around the deserted hallways
 Listening to the click of my heels,
 Seeing the janitor carts
 Just sitting there
 Knowing that they were Preparing for another day
 Of idleness, litter,

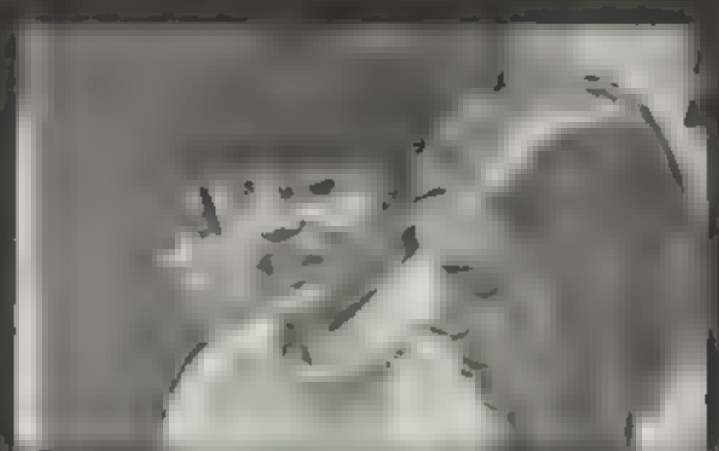

And the rush of everything
 I got my coat
 Slammed my locker door
 And heard it echo
 A hollow sound
 How sad the place is Empty
 I'll be leaving here soon.
 But I'll remember it
 The place I grew in How noisy and crowded it was
 When the final bell rang
 And how quiet it was After everyone had left
 It's quiet now — very quiet

MUD

God invented mud just so
Kids could make pies. Didn't you know?

Mix dirt and water until thick
(Use your hands or use a stick).
Mold into a cake or ball
Taking care no pieces fall.
Now arrange them (if you can)
On a rock, or in a pan.
Mud for mud pies shouldn't run.
It should be firm Set in the sun
For the better part of a day
Mud pies are the best that way
You don't have to test each pie.
When they're done, They're hard and dry.
Now if you've got the nerve
Garnish with a leaf and serve.

Isn't life a sort of death, a slow and painful
Hush of questions without answers?
Can the bird sing in the bush of question?
What's the matter with you, man?
Are you scared to die?
the unknown illogism . . .
You want to keep your security
Security of living a slow motion death
You dream of security
as a girl dreams of love—
You are so lost . . . I feel sorry for you—Anyway,

We have to die someday, don't we?
When ever it is, what's the matter with it?
Just, man
have fun,
enjoy life (if we can call it "life")
make love
clap when at the movies—
a criminal is shot in the face.
You can see the blood running.
Ah! This is good! this is fun!
blood blood!
Don't you see, it's your own blood

Which is running away
one drop after another slowly, softly
like this tear dying in the corner of her lips.
You are so lost, man so lost and so dead already more dead than this stone
You won't ever reach as high as the sky or be as deep as that sea.

with smell of steaks in passageways
Six o'clock

The burnt-out ends of smokey days and now a gusty shower wraps the on broken blinds and chimney-pots lonely cab-horse steams and stamps and then the lighting of the lamps

The wisdom of the world is this to say,
"There is no other wisdom but to gulp what time can give." To guard no inward vision winged with mysteries; to hear no know vigils of sorrow crowned when loveless passions fade From wisdom such as this to find my gloom I go, companioned by Radnor had its finest season ever finishing 5-4-3. It was the first time the team has played better than .500. Five of the eleven starters were given all-Central League Team Honors, John, Cary, Lou, Salvador, and Doug - congrats! Defeating Harrington then Ridley, Marple, and then defeating Conestoga out in broad daylight where everyone could see. A complete dissatisfaction at allowing Penncrest get away with a tie after being up two with a little over a minute to play. The soccer party.

Radnor soccer's on the up as this season proves.

Hockey

Captains ready? Time in on the whistle. Ground sticks! Ground sticks! Ground sticks! and another hockey game is begun. The benches sit on the side lines eating flavored ice cubes and shouting favorite snatches like R.O.! Amen!

Up and down the field the forward line runs with the defense always backing them up. A quick dodge, short push pass and hard hits bring the ball within range of the goal. Drive. But the goal is saved by the goalie and hit upfield again. The players trudge back, panting, hoping for that elusive score

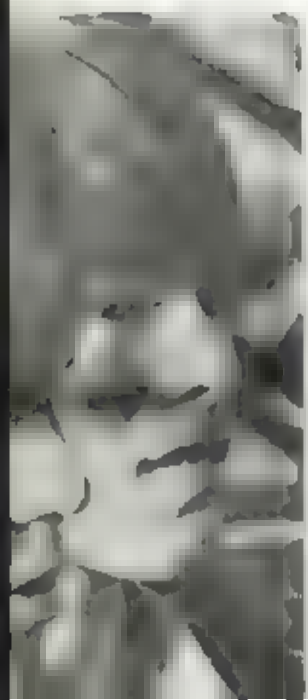

Football

August 23rd, those hot, humid, sweltering days, kicking game, ugh, take those hits, we're 2 minutes behind schedule let's go with agilities, set . . . set, set, Carroll scrimmage, we showed 'em. The newspapers loved it. Radnor's gonna do it, then a little bit of rain. We've had an accident. Glad we missed Haverford scrimmage. Radnor's got the team, everyone says so. Lansdowne, they got lucky. Conestoga, they beat us. Harriton, we're on our way. Thursday was a great practice, but what happened? We beat ourselves. They all got lucky, we made mistakes. What else can you say about a 2 and 8 season.

Saturday morning at 5:00 he wakes up from his dream. Quietly stares at the ceiling above. Anxious and waiting for what is to come. He goes downstairs and he looks at the clock, and then he heads back to bed to try for the sleep that he knows will not come. The morning creeps by like all eternity. How does one rest on a morning like this?

L.

M.

In the record book this year's season was the same old story as the past had been with the L's starting out with great victories. But for Radnor football developed a new and exciting aspect of the L's pride. A new coaching staff instilled confidence and desire in the team, and not once did they have to bow their heads in embarrassment and disgrace. As the season matured so did Radnor football and by the L-M game, the spirit peaked. "Get it done! 71-0 the most disastrous paint party ever splat! Bobbing red and white balloons! Jerin' fer in WHA! I want to take you higher!" "Raising hell and drinkin' brew" were the crew of '72. Toby and Joan's descriptive telegram: "Up on the hill, oh yeah! Reassuring words by Coach Harrington" and a little time to catch our breath before the traditional canavan, rain or shine. Long lines of lights and never ending horns reminded the team of our support. With restless chanting and little sleep, the bright sun and pancake breakfast signified to all the nearness of the diamond anniversary game. On the field the preannounced drill team and color guard were not to go unnoticed. It's round off, those crazy tapas, muddy saddle shoes with colorful bouquets. Then, the kick off. Time after time anticipation was followed by frustration. Three times within the ten and nothing to show for it. Always hoping and never stopped trying. Marc going downfield, Schuler passing to Reggie and then a crashing tackle in the backfield and a painful body hobbling off the field with 12 seconds left. The touchdown that never came, and the victory balloons that were released in sorrow were not to completely overshadow the spirit and unity shared by all.

No traditional crowds greet these gymnasts at their meets. Many times only musty equipment and friendly rivalries of the opposite sex. Bumps and bruises are accepted occurrences, expected to be taken with a smile.

A healthy seriousness and increase of resolution to be the best and win, has captured every one. Rivalries with the younger, very competitive athletes is a new thing, but the veteran gymnasts still keep up. Tri-captains are new too, but the one and only coach isn't. The team is really great and proud of it. For who knows better, pride and honor in self-respect than those who lift their heads from the floor, and stand in their own personal accomplishment?

Danger, gymnast at work!!
 Chalk up another fine year for the girl's gym team, injuries and all. This year there were 15 varsity and Jr. varsity girls out there rolling around, jumping, flipping and falling. Unfortunately they encountered all kinds of ailments from twisted ankles to concussions. At one time only 4 varsity girls were left to face competition With Ellen Coccagna and Nancy Park going all around, and Joan Park and Ann Rittenhouse putting in outstanding performances, the girls remained undefeated

Swimming

The swimmer . . . the diver

A racing form pushing along the pool's length. Blurry-eyed girls in multi-colored suits trace endless paths through the cold, green water. Reaching hard, breathing rapidly, turn in a second and stretch for home to beat all opposition. Close wins such as these brought a season of 5 wins and 2 losses. Thanks go to Mrs. Totten for the even better season this year

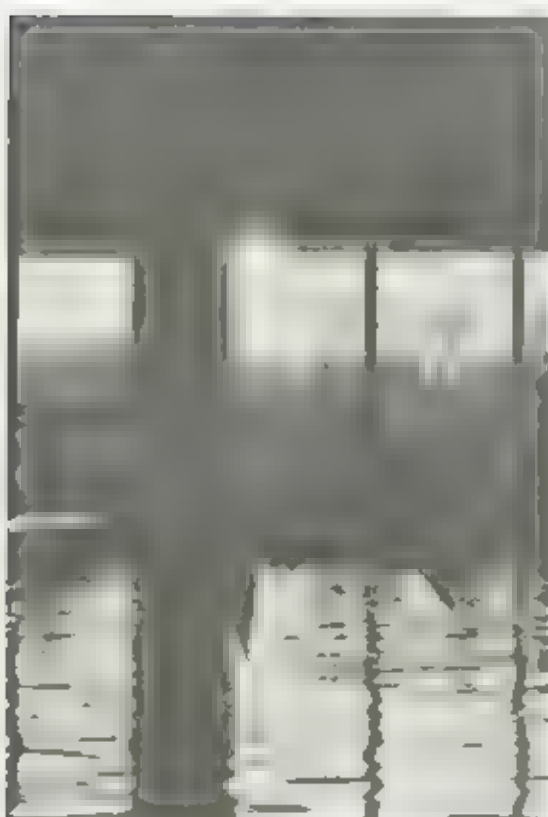

CENTRAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Oh, hell! I can't see. Who has my goggles? I can't do a $2\frac{1}{2}$ in pike; you're nuts. Who has my towel? This water is freezing! Where is my bathing suit? Swim WHAT just for a warm up? Where is the pool? I'm not going to practice at 6:30 in the morning for anybody!! Did you see the sun come up at practice this morning? I can't find the lines in the bottom of the pool. Don't worry they are still there, the @%&'(" coach forgot to filter the water. Has anyone seen my bathing suit? This diving board doesn't bounce. I can't find my bathing suit. Don't worry about it, the coach didn't filter the water anyway.

And so develops the day to day routine of swimming practice after swimming practice. Days when you have practice cold, sick, half blinded, and thinking about Saturday morning practice and how it will make your weekend.

And what does it all lead to? To the days of swim meets when you are sick beforehand from nerves, all sky high afterwards with a feeling of success.

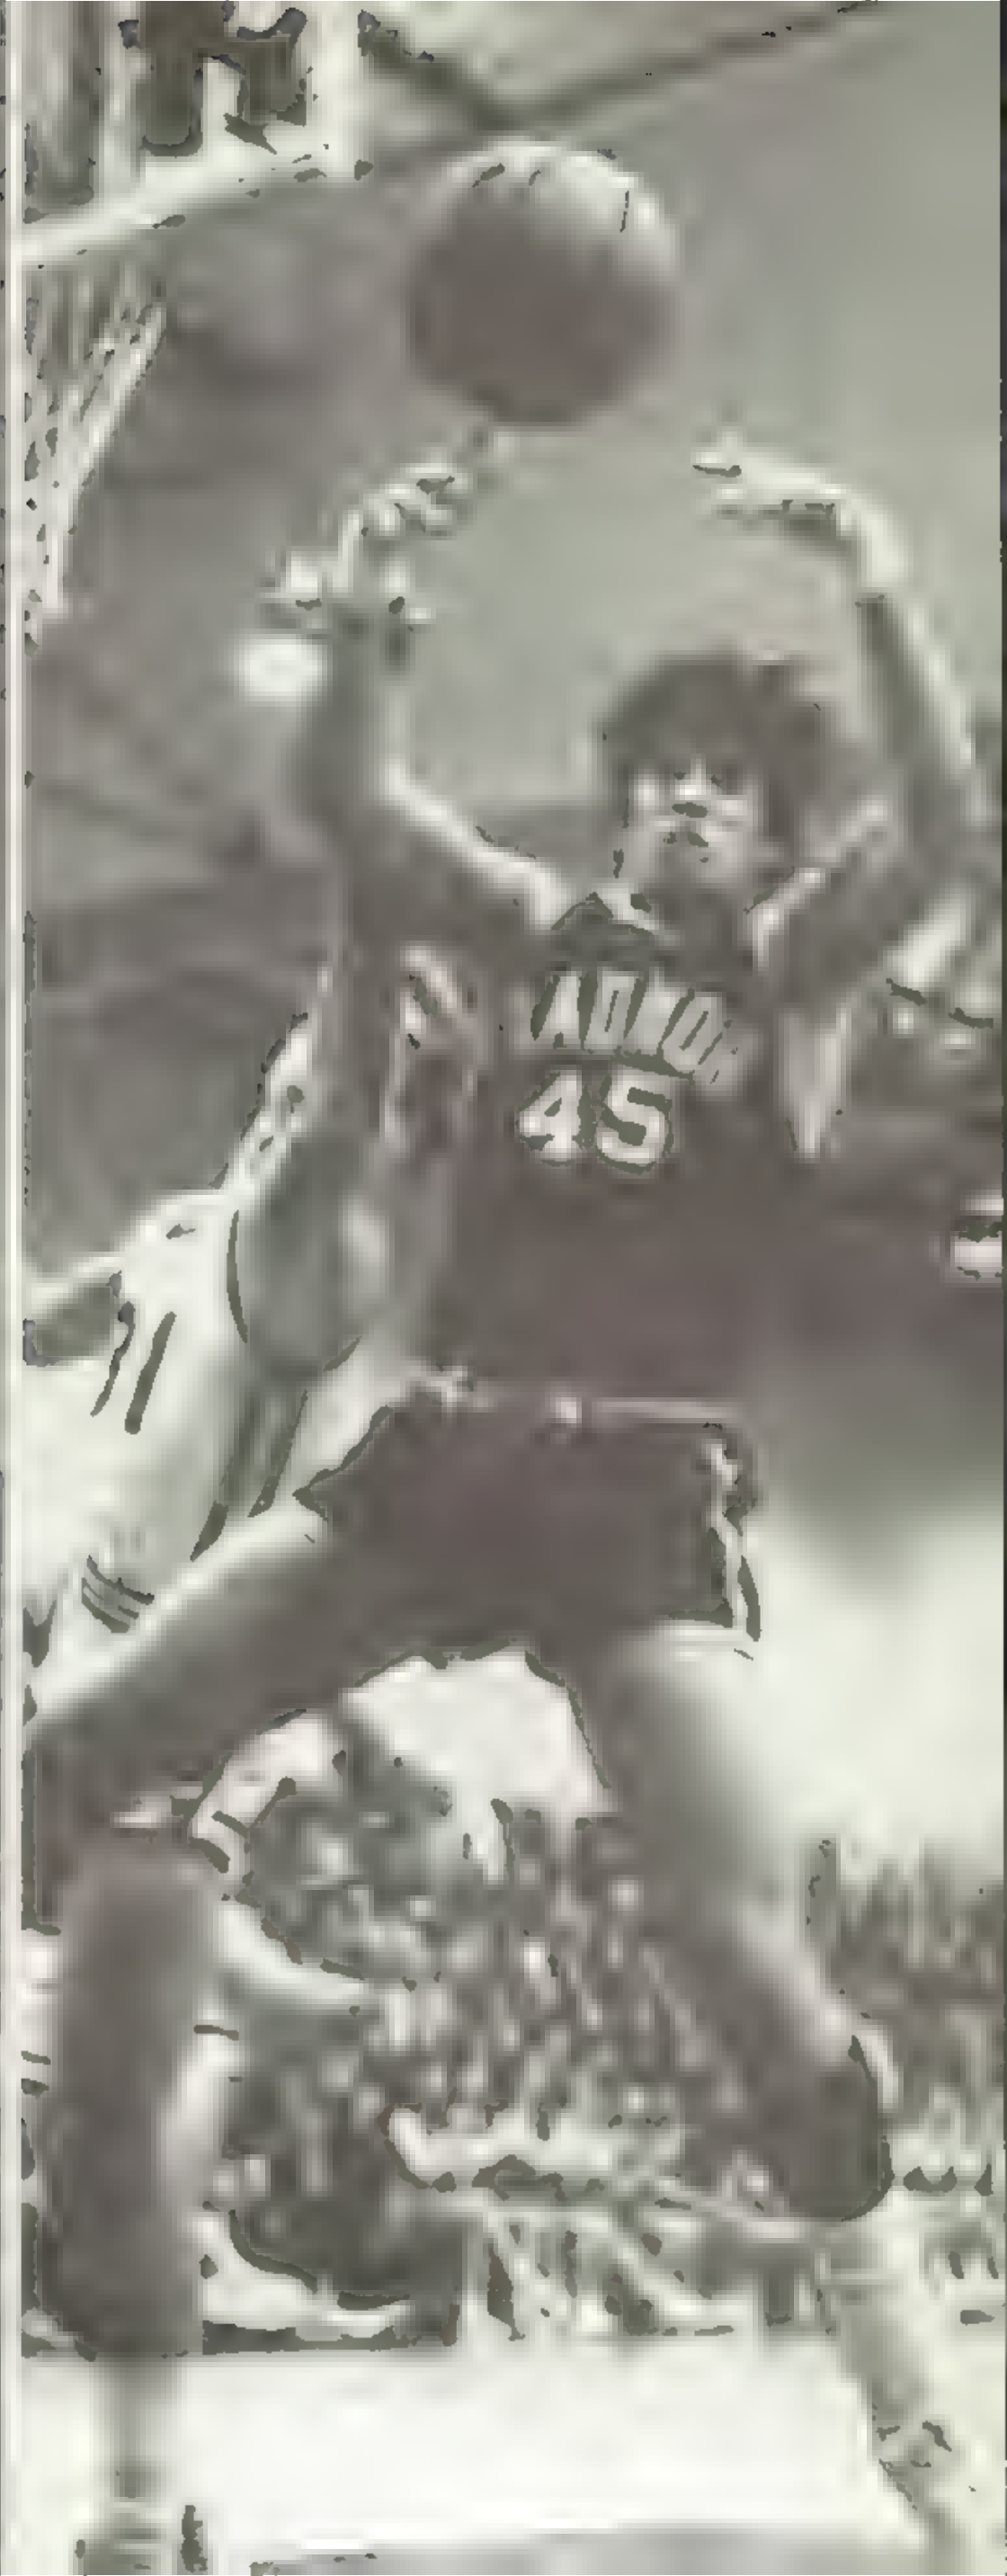

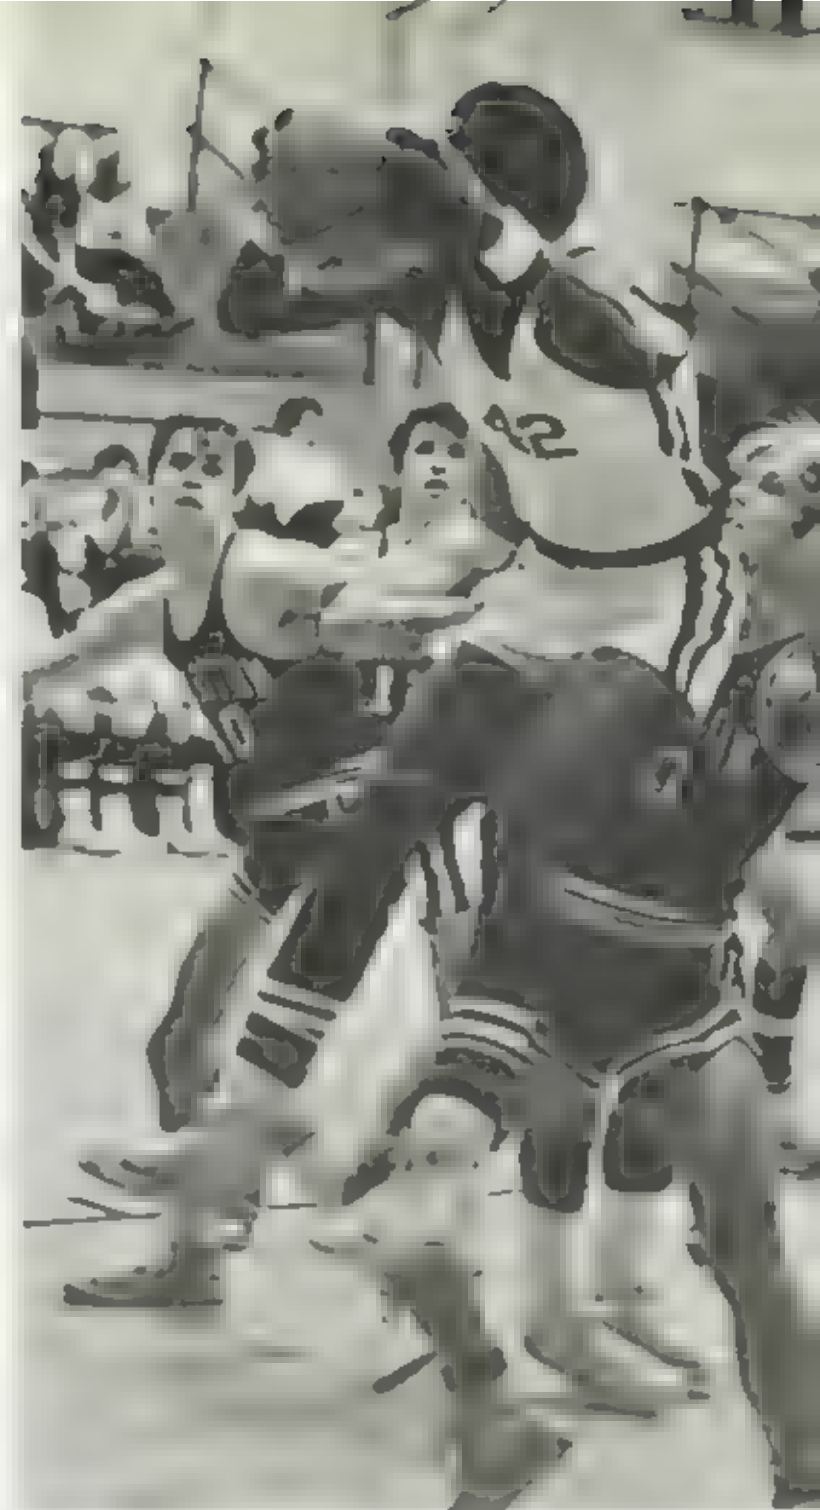

Hey you!

You! Who sit all winter and laugh at the wrestling team that never wins. To those of you who knock us, we say "fine", but why don't you come out with us every day for 5 long months and work. When the season is over we will have done 4,000 grass drills, 3,000 push ups, 4,000 sit ups, 200 hours of wrestling. A hour of neck bridges, and run until it hurt, but we didn't stop. We learn to ignore the pain, just as we ignore you who smirk and criticize. We have pride because we know out of 1500, only the 15 of us stuck it out. We know what wrestling is. It's working a lot and getting a little, praying but never winning. Frustration beaten out on lockers, bloody noses and mouths. It's knowing the smell of the mats and every inch of them. Wrestling's something you in the stands would never know. Don't hold your breath but keep your eyes open. You're going to see some wrestling at Radnor.

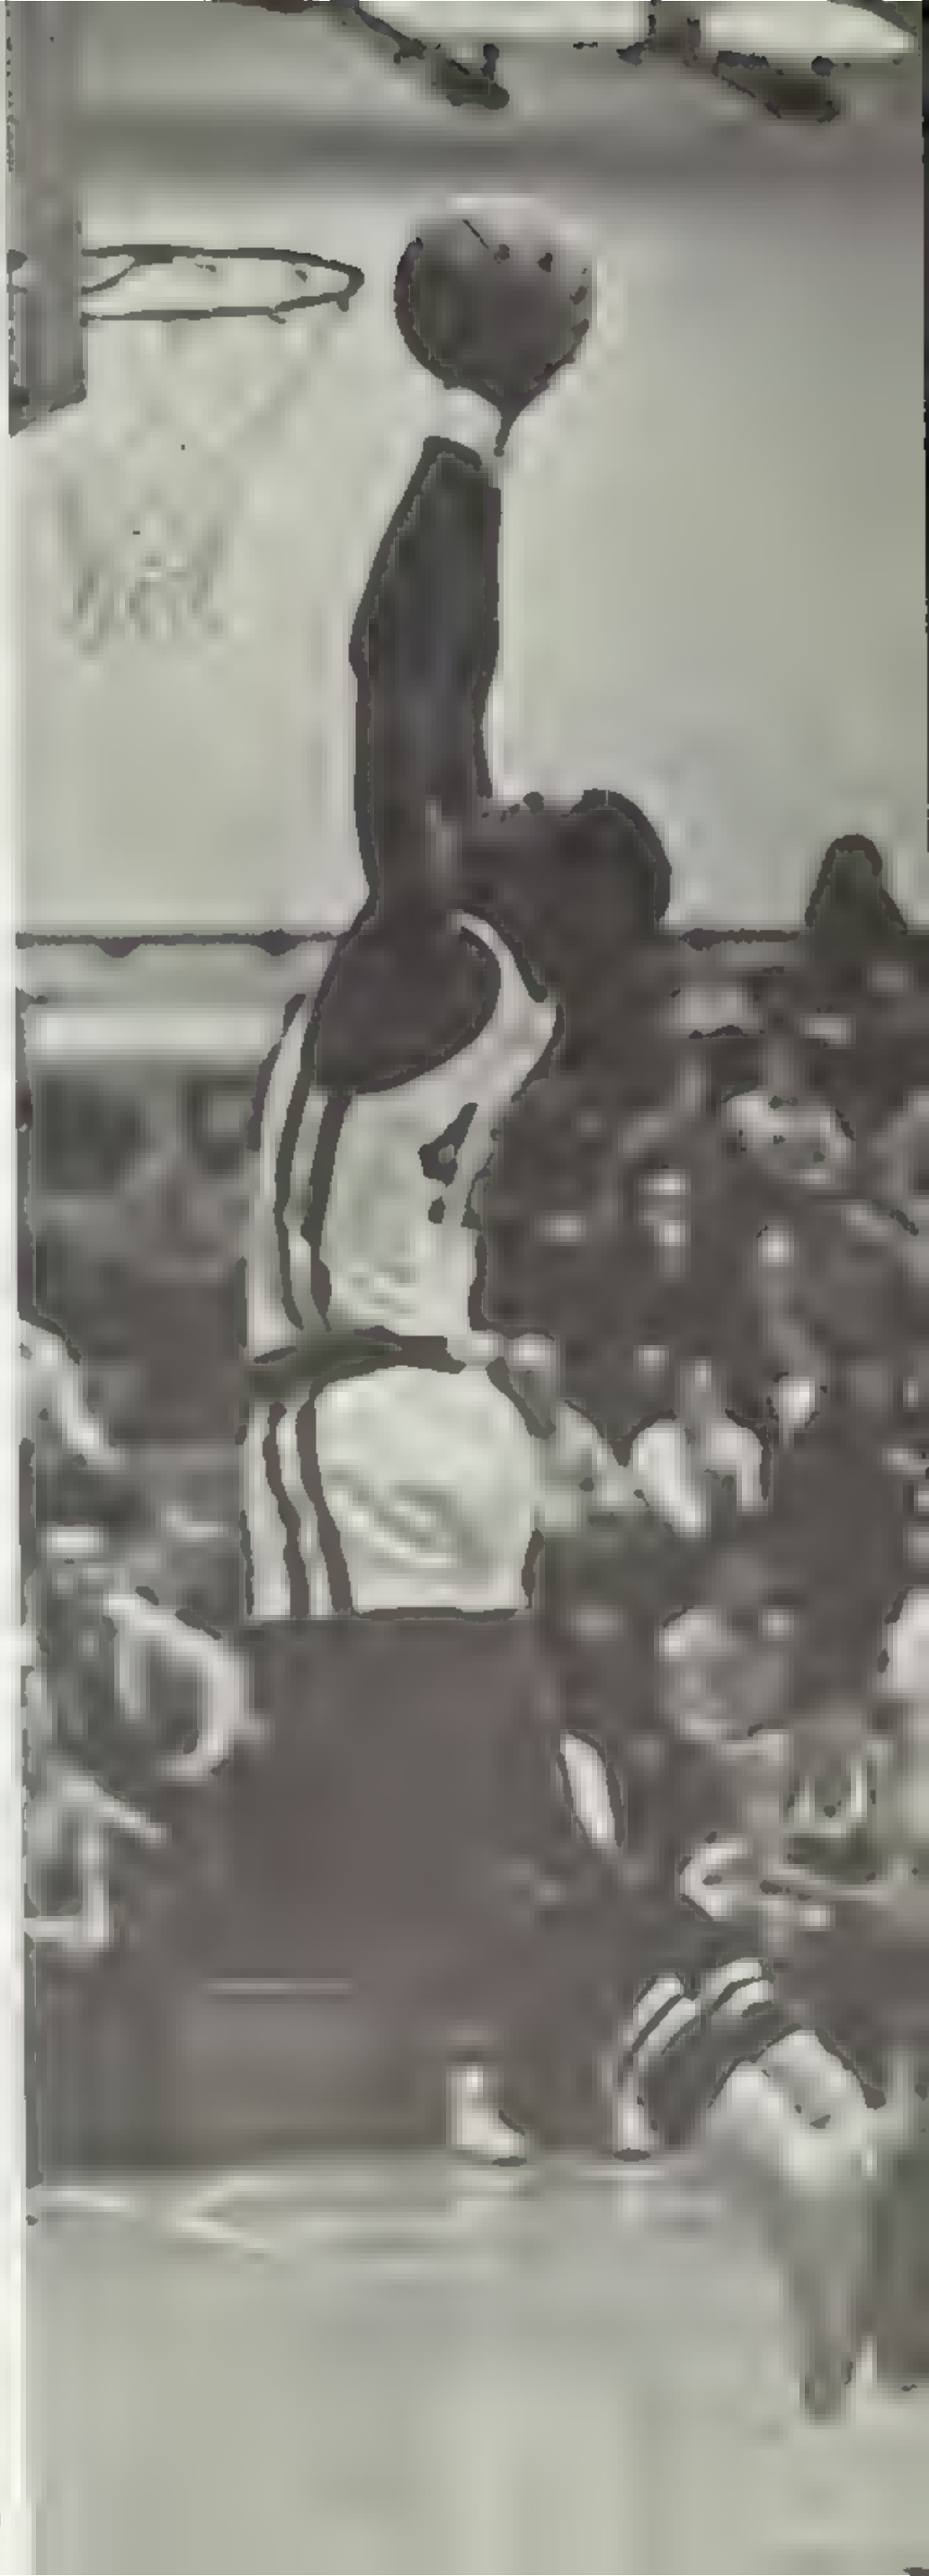

Who said we weren't going to have a great season? The papers. Hah! We showed 'em! Bomber shooting the eyes out of the basket Herman and Fwed. "Hells bells, son, what are you doing on the floor?" Henry and Dancing Bear. "No, no Dancing Bear. Not like that." Sweet Pete and Aaron. "Come here Aaron. You and Robbie go one on one." "Like we didn't beat L.M." Then a victim of the breaks, we began losing steam. A lucky Conestoga team turned us off for good. We had a team this year and we'll run their tails off next year.

Girls' Basketball

It wasn't an ordinary season this year. Co captain Nora Lachman became ill and missed every game, so the success of the season fell on the shoulders of co captain Peggy Snow. With the help of the boys, we learned the fundamental skills and moves of five-man basketball. Night practices were something else with players staggering in at all hours. With the spirit of Mrs Lutz and the unerring shooting of Toots, we won three straight games after getting off to a slow start, and the season progressed from there. We couldn't have gotten it all done without the experienced coaching of Miss Enke.

Ice Hockey

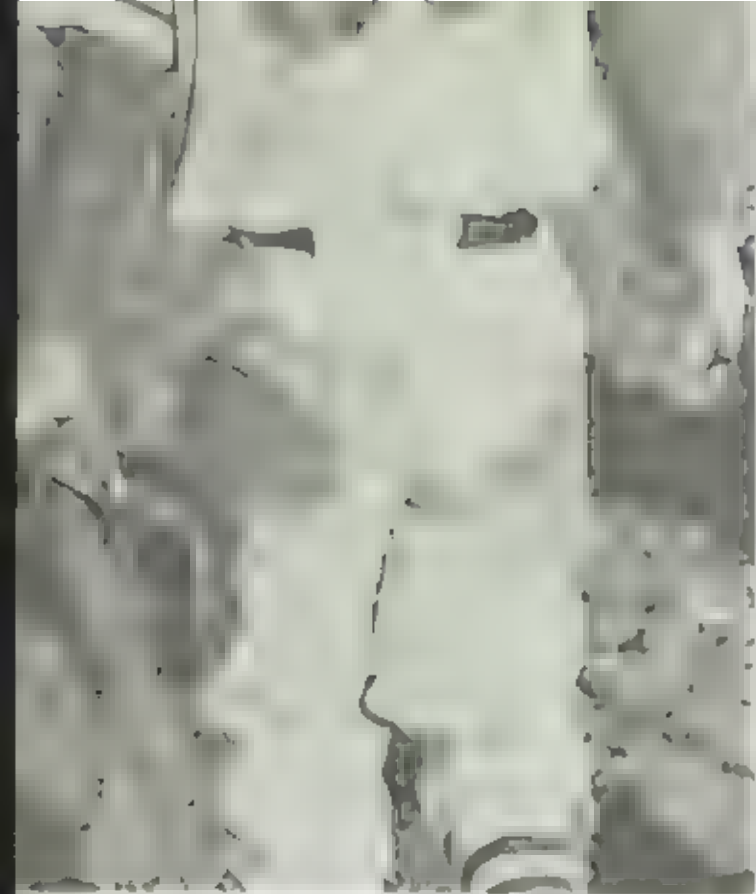

Although our tennis team has had much success in the past, we cannot say the same for our coaches. Our fearless leaders have either not returned, quit or become pregnant. Who will be our mystery coach for this year? Cathy Luce, our bold captain will be playing first singles, so we are sure to have a decisive victory there! We also have four senior returning players. Maybe this year we will be lucky and the monsoon winds which usually plague the courts will not return. Brandy, our large as life mascot, has successfully scared our opponents to death, and has devoured several thousand tennis balls. We hope he will be returning because a few scare tactics always come in handy. But with our annual returning players, and some new faces, we are hoping for a successful season.

Boys' & Girls' Tennis

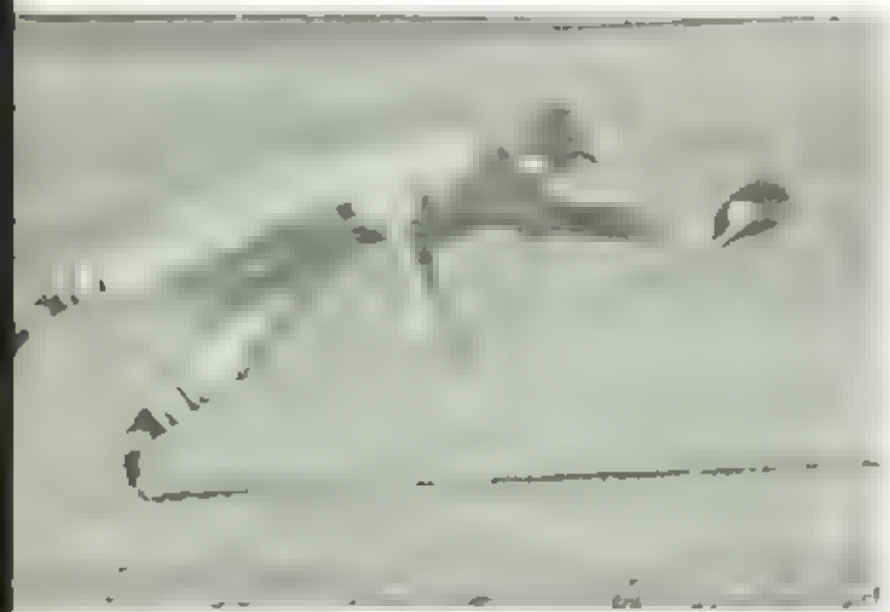

Between the woods and soggy tennis balls, broken raquets and strings, and worn-out shoes, while fighting for courts and fighting Brandy for the balls, we found time to practice up for the tough season which faced us in the Central League. The same odds which we laughed at this season will face upcoming Radnor teams, who we figure will get by as well as we did.

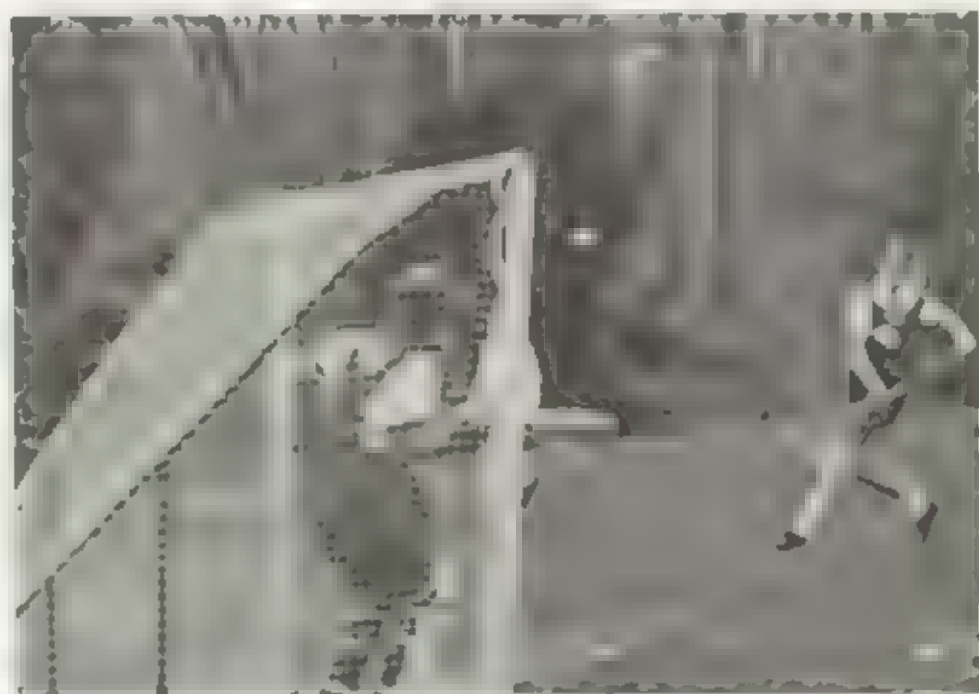

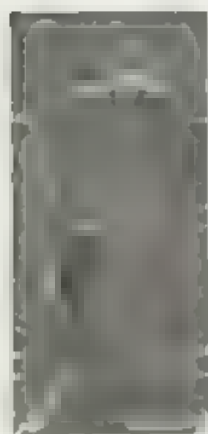

What can be said about a season we haven't had yet? Plenty!

It was seen in a dream, a great vision. We rode high over every team in the league. Freddie pitched a no-hitter. The Tastycake ratings labeled us the best in the area. Even Maury was offered a scholarship to V.F.M.C. The team fought onward, bowling over the other high school teams and won a national championship. One week and 14,000 miles later, we were in Japan ready to take on the Tokyo Joes for the World High School Baseball Championship. Would you believe? . . . on to a great season — Good Luck!

How to feel good: Gab in the lockerroom. Jog around the school. Then, tear down to the field to beat the coaches there. Pick up one of those orange superballs to practice skills; catching at every angle and height, and learning to throw with precision. Maneuver the ball. Dodge your opponent. Run! The timing's important. A rhythmic pattern of run, catch, throw governs every move to goal. A white spaceman stands silently in the goal. Turn slightly and shoot. It's deflected and the ball bounces back down field, but nothing stops. Get that ball and go again. Through sweat and sprints and March's mud, there's only the drive of lacrosse, a game of catching, throwing, waiting, running, trying and doing

The Sophomore dance, Friday nights at the gym and that fantastic Folk Concert were a part of the activity-packed 1971-1972 year. Poison

There is no escape
And there is no solution.
The food we eat holds the poison
The water we drink holds the poison
And the air we breathe holds the poison.

So we peacefully watch these small,
animals dying from the very poison from which we shall soon perish.

We wonder in a sort of profound amazement
Is the sun truly growing dimmer?
Are there no more crystal blue waters to be found?
We feel so tired and so weak.

Where is the answer?
(perhaps we are the poison.)

Our Elegant Lavatories

Enter quickly and carefully as you shout "It's all right!" and bump into someone you might know but you don't greet because of poor visibility. To the new students at Radnor, this editorial is dedicated. It will explain standard forms of entering the lavatories, leaving the lavatories, and what to do when you get there.

Entering the lavatories is a rather simple technique if practiced often. Simply open the door with speed, so all inside can see you quickly, shout "It's all right!" or "This is a raid!" and proceed to walk into the room. The room is a sight for sore eyes. A soft white blanket of smoke embraces and surrounds you and your mind is at ease: heaven on earth. Glancing at the decorative walls, you try to interpret the variety of fine literature. The general atmosphere is so infatuating that you may forget what your purpose is in being there. However, after a minute or so you become yourself and your goal is remembered once again.

There are two reasons why you would venture to this room. One is to satisfy the desire of nicotine soothing your throat and the other is to answer nature's call.

Satisfying A Desire

There are three ways of satisfying a nicotine desire: either carry a cigarette with you and smoke it as you would anywhere else, or breathe deeply, or burn a "drag" from someone else's cigarette. Obtaining a "drag" is an art all by itself. To begin with, ask someone with a cigarette, "Gimme a drag" or "Can I have a drag o' that?" After the cigarette is in your hands, you're in charge. Hold the cigarette with the thumb and index fingers at the filter. Squeeze the filter with all strength in you and bring the cigarette to your mouth. Puff the cigarette and inhale the smoke. As you exhale the smoke through your nose, puff the cigarette again and inhale the smoke again. Repeat this process until your fingers can feel the heat of the cigarette and the flame is approximately one and one-half inches long. At this point the cigarette should be returned to its proper owner, if he can be found.

Answering nature's call is a method which requires a little more time and patience. The room must be completely cleared of all people before you may begin and since all previous descriptions and forms are to occur between classes, answering nature's call requires you to be late for class. The reason for the room to be cleared before all is because of vision. After all, if the lavatory is still full, the visibility is so poor, that you may be using your best friend as a facility, however, after the room is cleared, you may answer nature's call as you would at home or in a restaurant, and instructions for this are not necessary.

Now that the mission is completed, the most obvious thing to do is leave. Not only is this the most obvious step, it is also the easiest. Find your way to the sink, where you have left your books, comb your hair as you look into the mirror which shows no reflection, pick up your books, and somehow get to the door and walk out. If a fellow student should walk in as you are leaving, make sure to yell out the same words you used when you entered. If a teacher should walk in at this time, greet him with a sentence that is loud and mentions his name. Do not warn your friends in any other manner or you will be suspended from school and if you do not warn them in the proper form, you may find yourself in a difficult situation with your friends after you find their names on the suspension list.

After you arrive at your class, your eyes water to clean themselves and some idiot is bound to ask you what you're "on," but you get used to those types of reactions from people while you're coughing and sneezing like a walking cigarette. So ends the adventure to the lavatories.

alternative schools project west — and schooling is only a part of learning. For people learn most effectively and most significantly by living. They are far from the artificial world of school. We learn by working, by unpleasant tasks, for authoritarian bosses, by unexpected means. We learn by serving, by giving of ourselves to those who need us. And we learn by doing nothing, by waiting, and watching, and meditating, and being still. And most of all we learn by loving, by finding meaningful relationships with other people that is a constant challenge of our age.

Learning gives you knowledge. Living brings you wisdom. Learn as we give as you learn, love as you will.

Spirit of Radnor*

O Tempora, O Mores*

Gallantly he strides
But steady as she goes,
Unobtrusively he prys

Your arrogance melts
Innovatively he tries
With two smiles.

Bellied humor.
Her mind with mine intertwined to dance, to laugh, to dance, to play the forms of old recalling.

Reaches and receives Receives and reaches

*What times, what customs

ROBERT FITZGERALD

"The younger generation should always be held accountable for their actions but the older generation should remember that young people are not perfect and everyone, both young and old should be allowed to profit from making good and bad decisions."

ROBERT PATTERSON
